COAST POLICE SEEK FOUR MEN AS NUDE BODY OF WOMAN FOUND

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police are seeking four men for questioning in connection with the death of a 25-year-old woman whose nude body was found early today in an east-end hotel.

Police identified the woman as Alice Georgica. Cause of death has not been established but an autopsy is scheduled.

Police said the woman booked into the hotel Monday night with four men. Three of the men left immediately but the fourth stayed for almost an hour.

Power Commission Offers $25 Million Bond Issue

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett of British Columbia announced Monday night that the B.C. Power Commission will make available a $25,000,000 issue of parity bonds similar to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway issue which was oversubscribed last year.

The premier said the move was designed to "create a new money market for B.C." He said the Power Commission issue would probably be followed by a B.C. Bridge and Toll Authority offering.

Mr. Bennett, here to attend a cabinet meeting today in North Vancouver, made the announcement at a press conference.

He said the bond issue will be advertised in June and go on sale in July. Mr. Bennett said he was announcing it now in order that people may plan their finances and participate.

"MAKE OWN PROSPERITY"

"We want everyone to participate, to make some of their own prosperity," he said.

The premier explained that the bonds are fully guaranteed by the government and are redeemable at par at any time and they bear interest at five per cent.

He reviewed the financial history of the PGE bonds, which aroused some criticism at the time they were announced. The first issue for $10,000,000 was oversubscribed and subsequently a total of $35,000,000 was issued.

"Not one of these bonds has been turned back to the PGE nor are there any in the hands of the government," he said.

"I want to ask: where are the critics tonight?"

CREATE MONEY MARKET

Mr. Bennett tied the parity bond announcement to what he termed an "over-all plan to create a money market in B.C."

He said the first step was the retiring of direct provincial debt, followed by the parity bonds which result in the use of B.C. money for B.C. projects.

This was now being aligned with a policy of using the province's own pension and Workmen's Compensation Board accounts to buy government-guaranteed bonds issued by municipalities for schools, sewers and water.

"By these means, we're becoming immune to the tight money policy of Mr. Fleming," he said.

U.S. Equipment Sold "At Bargain Prices"

MONTREAL (CP) — The federal government was charged today with sanctioning the dumping in Canada of millions of dollars worth of second-hand American construction equipment.

The Canadian Association of Heavy Equipment Distributors said these "forced sales" are pushing members out of competition.

R. Boyd Somerville, Toronto, immediate past president, said Canadian equipment dealers are not asking for a monopoly because with competition as keen as this, a monopoly could not exist.

"But we must convince the government that the situation is wrong and must be changed."

The association's protest stems from sale of U.S. government construction equipment here "at bargain prices."

Mr. Somerville said the association had no accurate figures but had been told by the customs department and by Defence Production Minister Raymond O'Hurley the quantity was "truly staggering."

SALES CONTROLLED

Sales are controlled by the Canadian government's Crown Assets Disposal Corporation. The machines involved are used by U.S. construction firms building defence installations in Canada and then turned over to the corporation.

Deductions are made to cover duty and sales tax. These go to the Canadian government and the balance is paid to Washington.

"We should remember too," Mr. Somerville said, "that the American government itself protects the home economy by refusing to allow war surplus to be brought into the United States to be sold."

In the last two years a considerable number of machines have been thrown on to the market through auction sales and many of our members have been deprived of orders they otherwise would have received."

Our Kathy's Missing, But Not For Long!

Miss Kathy Archibald, "Miss Canada 1953" is listed as "missing." At least, according to the records of the Miss America Pageant.

She is among six Canadian beauties being sought by Pageant headquarters so they may be invited to attend the 25th anniversary reunion of their Mu Alpha Sigma sorority, the society of former Miss America contestants, to be held at Atlantic City, N.J. Sept. 6-10.

The Daily Courier this morning was contacted by the Miss America Pageant headquarters, requesting assistance in obtaining Kathy's last-known address.

STUDYING IN ST. LOUIS

A quick call to her mother, Mrs. W. J. Archibald, disclosed Kathy is now attending Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., where she is studying for her Ph.D. The former Lady-of-the-Lake, who went on to capture the Miss Canada title, obtained her B.A. at the University of British Columbia, and her M.A. at the University of Illinois.

Just for the record, Kathy's address is c/o department of sociology and anthropology, Washington University, St. Louis, 5, Mo.

The unique reunion will mark the silver anniversary of the founding of the Mu Alpha Sigma sorority in 1935, the beginning of the "modern era" of the Miss America contest. Only girls who competed in the national finals during the last 25 years are members of this organization.

Of the nearly 1,100 girls who participated in pageants during the last quarter-century, all but 400 have been located.

P.S. The Daily Courier will publish a list of the Miss America Pageant officials.

Immigrant Says He Was Arguing "All The Time"

BRISTOL, England (CP) — What annoyed Douglas Martin during his five years in Calgary was when Canadians asked him whether England had television yet.

"I was arguing all the time," said Martin, a motor mechanic who has returned to his native Bristol. "We need a ministry of information to tell the world about our success in science and industry."

CHESSMAN DECLARATION

"I Have Gone to Oblivion So Society Can Forget"

The following statement by Caryl Chessman originally was made in 1955, when his execution seemed imminent. Last January Chessman and assistant managing editor George Flowers of the Long Beach Independent revised the statement slightly. The Independent published the copy-righted story Monday afternoon, after Chessman's execution.

By CARYL CHESSMAN
(Copyright 1960 by Long Beach Independent, distributed by The Associated Press.)

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — These words are not intended to be published unless the state of California has finally taken its vengeance upon me.

That, you see, is just what capital punishment is.

Now that the state has had its vengeance, I should like to ask the world to consider what has been gained.

I know that there are many who say that the presence of Caryl Chessman upon this earth is a menace to society. But society has had many other opportunities to keep Caryl Chessman from its midst. In fact, for nearly 12 years, it was able to keep this poor human, Caryl Chessman, from intruding upon anyone's property or privacy.

A DIFFERENT PERSON

Capital punishment, it is said, is applicable to those who cannot be rehabilitated. Yet the Caryl Chessman who came to death row so long ago, and the Caryl Chessman who was poisoned by gas fumes, were quite different persons.

I feel that I had a useful life ahead of me, had the state been interested in justice, instead of vengeance. Perhaps my books were not masterpieces of literature, but they were readable and printable, and possibly offered some contribution to human thought. There might have been more and better books.

You have asked me if I am sorry, and I tell you I am. I am sorry for a childhood that was wasted. It seems ironic that most of my childhood was spent in institutions that were designed to correct my ways and mend my manners. They failed to do that and, I am sorry.

Now I am gone. Whatever use I might have been to society is cancelled by an act of vengeance.

Now I am gone. Whatever use I might have been to society is cancelled by an act of vengeance.

NOT A PENALTY

Capital punishment is not a penalty. Many times, in these last few years, I have realized it might be a blessing to end this tormented struggle and this inhuman harassment.

I have seen the year, the friendless, the mentally ill, led to the chamber of execution. I have felt that society has each time, shirked its responsibility. These were the mistakes of civilization. Instead of correcting mistakes, society creates them. Out of sight, out of mind.

You ask me if I have a confession to make. I have not. In my lifetime I was guilty of many crimes, but not these for which my life was taken. You ask me about a future life. I believe there is none. Caryl Chessman has gone to oblivion, so that society can forget one sorry lifetime.

Bridal Dress Being Altered After "Leak"?

LONDON (Reuters) — Mayfair society was in a tizzy today over reports that Princess Margaret's wedding dress has been hurriedly altered.

A Socialist newspaper headlines that it has. A Conservative newspaper says it has not.

The Communist Daily Worker makes its own contribution: "We now are able to reveal two jealously guarded palace secrets. The wedding dress will have holes for head, arms and legs. 2-It will cost a lot of money."

All the fuss began a few days ago when the New York trade journals Women's Wear Daily predicted that Margaret's gown for her marriage Friday to Antony Armstrong-Jones would be "monastically simple."

CALLS IT RUBBISH

The Labor paper Daily Herald says royal dressmaker Norman Hartnell spent two hours Monday making alterations at the Princess' request.

Herald columnist Henry Fielding writes that Margaret was "most upset" about the leak. "Rubbish," says the Conservative Daily Mail, claiming that Hartnell's mission Monday was merely for a fitting.

But at least one revelation of the Women's Wear Daily was confirmed today. Designing Hugh Skillen said that, as predicted in New York, the bridesmaids' headresses will contain white feather head bands.

PM's Won't Talk About S. Africa

LONDON (Reuters) — British Commonwealth prime ministers today decided against formal discussions of South Africa's racial program at their 10-day conference here.

At South Africa's insistence, they agreed at their initial session to discuss the issue privately among themselves outside the conference chamber.

An official statement tonight said Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman raised the issue in his opening address.

South African External Affairs Minister Eric Louw replied that his government had sole responsibility for its domestic policies.

The statement said: "The meeting reaffirmed the traditional practice that Commonwealth countries did not discuss internal affairs of member countries."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cheryl Crane's flight ended Monday. She telephoned her father, Steven Crane, and asked him to come for her.

Cheryl, daughter of actress Lana Turner, escaped from the El Retiro home with two companions. All three were taken into custody.

Duchess Must Pay $18,690 For Defaming Ex-Secretary

LONDON (AP) — A high court jury awarded £7,000 ($18,690) in damages against the Duchess of Argyll today for defaming her former social secretary.

The secretary, Mrs. Joyce Macpherson, claimed the duchess told people she had sold tidbits to British newspapers three years ago about the Argyll marital troubles. These differences have since resulted in estrangement of the duke and duchess, who are suing each other for divorce.

The 46-year-old duchess, one of the great beauties of her generation, called no evidence in her defence.

Born Margaret Whigham, she is the former wife of U.S. financier Charles Sweeney, and was the "Mrs. Sweeney" mentioned in the Cole Porter hit "You're the Top."

DUKE TESTIFIES

The duchess' lawyer tried to get Mrs. Macpherson to admit that the defamation suit was financed by the duke to embarrass the duchess, but the plaintiff denied it.

The duke also denied it. He was called as a witness to support Mrs. Macpherson's allegations, and did so, at some length, about a confidential secretary who she is in the pay of the played as social secretary to the press.

FEDERAL VOTING AGE MAY BE REDUCED

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons elections committee agreed today to consider later in the present parliamentary session whether the voting age in federal elections should be reduced to 18 years from 21.

The motion proposing the age reduction was placed before the committee by Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena) and seconded by Alexis Caron (L-Hull).

Mr. Howard gave the time has arrived to give young Canadians between 18 and 21 the right to vote in federal elections.

British Columbia and Alberta had reduced the voting age in provincial elections to 19 and Saskatchewan to 18.

Europe Bitter On Execution Of Chessman

LONDON (AP) — Europeans today bitterly denounced the execution of Caryl Chessman. Two small youth demonstrations were reported from Latin America, while Africa, the Middle East and Asia said almost no attention to the California sex criminal whose legal manoeuvres kept him out of the gas chamber for 12 years.

The European continent heard the news of Chessman's death with horror and incredulity. Until the end, many had believed the convict — author would be granted another stay of execution.

BREAK EMBASSY WINDOWS

Rocks were hurled through the windows of the American Embassy in Lisbon. Paris police stood guard over the embassy there but there was no attempt on the building.

Lord Dewart, one of England's foremost lawyers, termed the execution repugnant and said: "Chessman must have suffered a thousand deaths before the end came."

Italian Communists and Roman Catholics were joined in rare unanimity. L'Unita, organ of Italy's Reds, wrote of the "atrocious crime by neo-fascist American justice." Rome's Il Messaggero said: "The law killed a man on his way to redemption. Justice which resorts to torture is no longer justice."

DUCHESS OF ARGYLL

Marchioness of Dufferin, one of the duke's cousins.

Urging the jury to be liberal with the damages, her lawyer said:

"In these days when the wealthy and eminent have a hard task dodging the attentions of the gossip writers a confidential secretary should act as a shield."

"The worst thing one could say about a confidential secretary is that she is in the pay of the press."

Driver Says He Doesn't Recollect Wild Car Chase

VERNON (CP) — The driver of a car which plunged off the highway while being chased by the RCMP said in Assize Court here Monday that he was under the effects of sedatives and has no recollection of the chase. James Morton Roach is conducting his own defence against a charge of criminal negligence. All three occupants in the car required hospital treatment following the crash, which occurred Dec. 11, 1959. Jack Sterling, a passenger in the car, suffered paralysis from the neck down and is still in the Vancouver hospital. Roach claimed he had been released from Vancouver General Hospital the day before the accident after receiving treatment for a stab wound in a Vancouver brawl. He said he later met Sterling and another friend and one of the men gave him four sedative pills to deaden the pain of his infected arm. The trio were driving to Quebec, said Roach, and he took four more pills before taking over the wheel of the car. When RCMP tried to check out the car the men were driving the chase began near Keremeos. Police said the car reached speeds up to 110 miles an hour and failed to negotiate a curve and hurtled over an embankment. Dr. Aubrey Charles Tanner, who attended Roach for the stab wound, testified that Roach had left the hospital before the wound properly healed. Asked what effect eight sedative pills of certain brand would have on Roach five hours after the last dose, Dr. Tanner said they would produce a "depressed state of consciousness, but they definitely were not painkillers."

Gov't Word Expected Soon On Purchase Of Camp Sites

VERNON (Staff) — Civic and provincial governments may announce result of negotiations for beach property and camp and trailer sites "in month."

Hugh Shantz, MLA for North Okanagan, told The Daily Courier this morning that he would probably be able to reveal B.C. government purchase of camp and trailer sites somewhere in the North Okanagan this month. He declined to specify the location, since immediate publicity might harm negotiations.

The provincial government, he said, had been attempting to buy suitable property "for more than two years."

Last week at a board of trade meeting Mayor F. F. Becker indicated he might have an announcement around May 8 regarding beach property for future development.

Kelowna Doctor To Address Club

VERNON (Staff) — Guest speaker at the Vernon Rotary Club meeting tomorrow will be Dr. J. H. N. Pozor of Kelowna.

His topic will be "Children's Feet".

The club will meet at noon at the Roundup.

Teachers Learn Of Ways To Foster Mental Health

VERNON (Staff) — The teachers' role in fostering mental health was outlined Saturday at a primary teachers' workshop.

Sessions were held in the West Vernon school. A total of 65 North Okanagan teachers registered for the workshop.

Mental health was the theme chosen by speakers Miss Joyce McRae and Miss Jean Roxburgh, primary instructors at the College of Education, University of British Columbia.

They emphasized that a child's adjustment to school and his ability to learn are vitally affected by his mental and emotional state.

Teachers, the meeting was told, must know how to recognize symptoms of maladjustment, and be able to deal with them positively, co-operating with parents, school administrators and health services.

During an intermission, teachers viewed displays of school projects.

Later, grade one teachers saw a demonstration of the cuisenaire method of teaching arithmetic by Miss McRae.

Grades 2 and 3 teachers discussed the teaching of oral language with Miss Roxburgh.

Tea was served by the Vernon hostesses under the chairmanship of Mrs. Margaret Martin.

In Lumby meanwhile, intermediate teachers took part in a workshop held at the elementary school. The group represented all schools in the North Okanagan District, including Revelstoke. Plans for fall convention sessions and for an in-service training next term were laid.

Robert Sheward of Charles Bloom high school conducted a social studies session on Mexico, illustrating his talk with colored slides.

Mrs. Ruby Lidstone of Enderby, secretary of the intermediate Teachers' Association, reported that this workshop laid the groundwork for development of next year's curriculum.

By IDA MAKARO
Daily Courier Lumby Correspondent

LUMBY — Sherrie Snieder, a grade 5 student, is Lumby's May queen. She was chosen Saturday.

Runners up in the voting were Candy Williams and Donna Scott. Sherrie will be crowned at Lumby's 47th annual May Day celebration May 28.

Judy Thavette and Dixie Shudder will be her attendants. In addition to the three grade 5 pupils who are May Day royalty, flower girls will be Patsy Specht and Patsy Mercier, both from Grade 1. Page boys will be Bill Pierce and Adrienne Charest.

The May queen will receive her crown and cape from retiring queen, Malorie McLeod. Her court will be on hand, including Judy Blancy and Linda Wardahl with Georgina Collinson and Alix Ingles as flower girls and Dinis Chabot and Peter Vlasveld as page boys.

A "Lumby Days" meeting held last week proved discouraging to the committee in charge. Turnout was poor.

It was decided to give the project one more try with a meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in Lumby youth centre.

Representatives from Lumby organizations are urged to attend. Wholehearted co-operation is asked since an ultimatum has been presented. "No satisfactory turnout, no July 1 holiday."

For Lumby, this celebration has always been exciting and fun-filled, attracting many visitors.

A representative from Cherryville came all the way to attend the unsuccessful meeting and left wondering why Lumby's own residents didn't attend.

Mrs. George Fisher has been elected president of Lumby Catholic Women's League.

Vice-presidents are Mrs. Jake Vachon, Mrs. Tess Hankey and Mrs. Kok. Secretary-treasurer is Mrs. W. Ahrens.

Plans were made at the meeting for representation at the forthcoming CWL convention. Mrs. George Fisher will be the official delegate.

VERNON WILL HELP

Plight of Refugees Said "Intolerable"

VERNON (Staff) — Vernon will be asked to remember the world's "forgotten people" May 17.

United Nations Association canvassers will appeal for funds in aid of World Refugee Year.

Local U.N. Association Refugee Year campaign chairman Harold Bartholomew relates that Chris Chataway, famed four-minute mile runner, returned with three friends from a tour of refugee camps in Europe. So tragic was the situation that Mr. Chataway and his friends were determined that the world must do something about the "forgotten people."

In the refugee camps they found people living in miserable barracks of former concentration camps 12 years after the end of the war which had made them refugees. These people had first believed these places were only temporary way stations on the road to a new life. But they found them to be prisons.

Conservative estimates indicated that of 40,000,000 refugees since the Second World War, there are still more than 15,000,000 requiring immediate aid.

Many of these refugees are from the Russian revolution of 1917, or their children. Others are refugees from Nazi persecution.

Most needy Evicted from their homes, denied the right to work, often lacking the strength, they are among the most needy refugees in the world.

During World Refugee Year, one of the primary aims is to clear the camps in Europe.

The West German government has offered to match dollar for dollar all monies raised to clear their camps.

Their are four specific agencies set up by the United Nations to deal with the refugee problem on an international basis.

The only thing lacking are tools to do the job.

All appeals for funds from the governments have up to now met with an inadequate response.

"TOO FEW" Far too few governments have contributed far too little, according to U.N. officials.

It is impossible, they say, to resolve refugee problems without money; and a failure to provide funds at a psychological moment will only involve greater cost in the long run—great cost in money, for time complicates refugee problems and greater cost in human suffering and deterioration.

Monies raised through World Refugee Year will provide food and clothing where before it has been inadequate. It will care for the lost and reunite families. It will find employment and help with education. It will care for unaccompanied children and for the old and sick.

One example, Mr. Bartholomew believes, will illustrate the plight of hundreds of thousands. Three children, the eldest 12 years old, live in a miserable shack in Hong Kong with an invalid grandmother. She is their only relative, since their father was run over by a truck and their mother died of tuberculosis.

Every day the children go round begging the remains of meals from others. A dozen families will hand them a spoonful each for their pot until the mixture gathered is enough to feed four mouths.

L. A. Snook of Kelowna attained the top marks in examinations recently conducted by the Pharmaceutical Association of the Province of British Columbia for graduates from outside the province desiring to register as pharmacists in B.C.

Mr. Snook graduated in pharmacy from the University of Saskatchewan in 1948 and is at present employed as a pharmaceutical manufacturer's representative in the Okanagan.

Also successfully completing the examinations were A. K. Fowler of Richmond, an Alberta graduate of 1954, L. V. Dore of Alberni, a Saskatchewan graduate of 1951, and M. Maycher of Red Deer, Alberta, a 1957 graduate of the University of Alberta.

The examinations were conducted by the board of examiners which is appointed by the provincial government on the recommendation of the Council of the Pharmaceutical Association.

Slump in District Business Not Seen as Serious Phase

Special traffic officer L. A. N. Potterton reported to city council Monday "town traffic" was not heavy at any time in April.

He also says he did not see the city parking lot full at any time during his six-daily patrols of the lot.

"In fact, it was only about three-quarters full even during the afternoons, which I thought was rather unusual," his report says.

Representatives of a number of downtown retail outlets stated, however, business is on a par with the same month last year. In one case a rise was noted. Investments are down, but not

Pleads Guilty In Safecracking

A 24-year-old New Brunswick man has pleaded guilty to safecracking in Kelowna district police court. William Oliver Storey was remanded eight days for sentence.

The young husband, said to have been travelling in the Okanagan with his wife and family, also pleaded guilty to two breaking and entering offences Friday night.

The safe-blowing occurred early last week at the Westbank post office. More than $300 was taken.

Storey was apprehended in Penticton on information supplied by the Kelowna RCMP detachment.

Community Planning Ass'n Regional Conference Here

Between 125 and 150 people are expected to converge on Kelowna May 27 for an Okanagan regional conference sponsored by the Kelowna Advisory Planning Commission and B.C. division of the Community Planning Association of Canada.

The conference will be held at the Aquatic with registration at 9 a.m., and will continue through the day.

"It will be the first of its kind for Kelowna; one was held in Penticton a few years ago."

Speakers will tell the story behind planning to the representatives of municipalities and organizations from throughout the valley including Kamloops.

J. W. Wilson of Vancouver, executive director of the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board of B.C., will speak on the need for planning as it affects the municipal economy. He will also speak on the high cost of growth and need for controlling growth of subdivisions.

B. Wiseman of Victoria, executive director of the Capital Region Planning Board of B.C., will speak on "Controlling Our Destiny," emphasizing the need for the Okanagan to plan on a regional basis.

G. Sunderland of Vancouver, regional architect for Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, will have as his subject "Building Better Communities," housing designs and the relationship between housing design and subdivisions will be his particular topic.

SUBDIVISION TALK

R. D. O'Brien, planning official for the district of North Vancouver, will speak on re-designing subdivisions. He will show how "uneconomic" subdivisions, for instance those to which provision of services is costly, can be redesigned through replanning.

Dr. Peter Oberlander of Vancouver, well-known expert on community planning, will talk on "Community Planning and the Economic Base of the Okanagan."

Don South, director of the regional planning division of the department of municipal affairs, provincial government, will tell of the role of his division and what it can do for a community.

After each has spoken, they will group together as a panel to answer any questions on community planning problems.

It was stressed any interested persons will be welcome, not only those connected with community planning, and that in the instance of Kelowna, the sponsors hope those for and against boundary extension will turn out.

The forum will wind up the day, which will also include a Dutch treat luncheon.

The Okanagan Valley Municipal Association will be sponsoring the conference by sending delegates; so will the local board of trade—some of its committees will be represented.

"We would like all citizens to come who are interested in properly and orderly development of the community in which they live," the sponsors say.

Boundary Stretch Meetings Slated

Three boundary extension public meetings are slated for next week in the city and district.

A meeting will take place May 9 in the Glenmore School for north Glenmore residents. These are the families who would revert to unincorporated status in the event South Glenmore was taken into the city.

The South Glenmore residents who would join Kelowna will parley in the Glenmore School May 11.

Kelowna High School will be the site of the May 10 meeting for those interested who now reside within the city limits.

Professor Peter Oberlander, the city's consultant on boundary extension will be present at the three meetings, as will the mayor and city council and the extension committee.

All meetings are scheduled at 7:30 p.m.

Cause for Complaint? "No", Says Macklin

Fred Macklin, secretary of school district 23 (Kelowna) says "wonders where the city has cause for complaint" regarding the city share of school costs.

City council Monday expressed alarm at the fact the city's mill rate levy is more than 50 per cent constituted by school taxes.

Mr. Macklin told The Daily Courier today 22.92 per cent of the gross school district budget is charged to the municipality this year. He states this is in fact a reduction of nearly one per cent from last year's city charges.

In addition, the secretary says the school budget is up about time to drop every year.

"Another thing," he said, "we are not taking tax money away from the city—if we did not have the schools the city would not be entitled to use the school tax for its own use."

"I wonder if there is too much cause for complaint," Mr. Macklin did say however, he did not think the provincial government share should continue to drop every year.

due to any local money shortage, says officials of Okanagan Investments Limited.

Stocks are moving slowly because of uncertainty caused by a spring market which so far has shown no established trend. Interest in bonds has reached an all-time high.

Other factors are coming elections in the U.S. and B.C. and the current Canadian defence department's difficulties.

Defence means billions of dollars of investment.

A substantial April slump in bank clearings indicates some falling off of business here even though clearings are "not too accurate a reflection of dealings."

Clearings for April this year were $5,585,522; in 1959, $6,764,708. Daily totals tended to be consistently down from last year.

J. K. Campbell, manager of the Royal Bank of Canada here—current clearing house—attributes the slump to last year's 3,500,000—box crop. Apple crops here average about $500,000. Soft fruits were also in short supply.

He also noted short canning and packinghouse seasons last year.

Other indication of a backward spring are building totals and accounting of downtown traffic and parking volumes.

Building permits are down from an April, 1959, total of $263,376 to $24,816; Year's total to the end of April, 1959 was $651,524 to the end of April, 1960, $514,826.

GEORGE ELLIOT HI NOTES

The return to school April 25 brought moaning and groaning from most students as results of Easter exams were given out. Congratulations go to Fred Larsen who received the highest mark in our school for a province-wide mathematics competition. Other competitors were Alan Bealby and Ken Stowe.

The school crest has been finalized! After a contest open to all students, the one finally chosen was designed by Jerry Takenaka. The crest is in the shape of a diamond with a white background. A black and white strip of plaid divides the crest in half, and on both sides in black letters are the words "Non Nobis Solum" and George Elliot High.

Arlene Trewhitt will represent our school at the United Nations seminar at the University of British Columbia. This seminar, attended by students all over B.C., will take place during the last week of August.

The past weekend was a very busy one for all band students. GEHS played host to two bands, the Edmonds Band from Burnaby and the Vernon band. The Edmonds Band arrived at 5 p.m. Friday, after which the members were billeted out. On Friday evening a dance was held in their honor. Music was provided by the "Emeralds" and records. Thank you, kids, for your support.

On Saturday night at 7:30, the three bands, Edmonds, Vernon and Rutland-George Elliot, presented a very good concert before a crowd of approximately 250. Again thank you, everyone, for your support in making this weekend such a success. Thank you, parents, for the support you gave in billeting and in concert attendance.

The track team is still working hard. Last week saw the completion of the pole vault and broad jump pits. The first meet is just around the corner—May 21. Isn't anyone going to challenge Gerald Hall and Ken Stowe, who still hold the Challenge Cup? —Harold Swanson, Liz Land.

Council 'in dilemma' On School Tax Levy

Kelowna city council feels it is sufficient money left after the "in a dilemma" over the increasing municipal levy for school taxes.

Alderman R. D. Horton, chairman of the finance committee told council Monday the city of Kelowna share of taxes for school district 23 has risen 116 per cent in the past four years.

Council committee members then indicated what they could not do in their respective departments because there was no money left.

Ald. E. R. Winter: "We require a new police headquarters and jail facilities. The jail should be put ahead of everything else—we should put a bylaw for police accommodation and jail facilities before the public as soon as the boundary extension business is settled."

Ald. Campbell Lipsett: "If we continue this way (with minimum expenditure) roads and everything will deteriorate—I think we should use up the home-owner grant for roads at least."

Ald. Horton explained more than 50 per cent of this year's mill rate of 42 mills was assessed for school purposes.

The city's two-mill increase for 1960 will constitute an increase in taxes of $8 to $12 per taxpayer.

CITY'S MAGISTRATE TO ATTEND PARLEY

Kelowna magistrate D. M. White has been granted authorization by city council to attend the annual B.C. magistrates' convention in Nanaimo June 8 to 10.

In a letter to council Mr. White pointed out the delegates would visit an industrial school for boys this year where they may learn more of the juvenile offender.

"I personally feel there is a lot to learn," he said.

Mayor R. F. Parkinson said he was "very desirous" Mr. White should attend the convention.

Injured Pair "Unchanged"

Kelowna General Hospital reports two accident victims recovering there in "much the same" condition. Their condition was said to be "fair and improving" Monday.

H. E. Haywood and Mrs. Gertrude Koenig were severely injured Friday when two vehicles crashed head-on near Indian Point, 17 miles north of Kelowna.

Paul Koenig, 74, his daughter Gertrude and Mrs. Haywood were killed in the collision.

A report from Vancouver indicated a respirator had been placed on a CPA plane for Penticton for one of the injured. However, hospital authorities declined comment.

SEEK PLEBISCITE

Boater Sewage Upsets SOHU

The South Okanagan Health Unit has expressed "increasing concern" over sewage falling into Okanagan Lake from private boats.

It considers it "a potential health hazard that has been a matter of keen interest of the unit for several years."

In a letter to city council Monday, Sanitary Inspector F. H. Alecock suggested the city discuss the matter with the Kelowna Yacht Club.

Mr. Alecock pointed out a family had used its larger pleasure boat as a summer house last year, and this could create a serious health problem, particularly with a boat is moored at a yacht basin.

He explained individual yacht clubs could now legally draw up regulations dealing with such matters.

Council will ask the yacht club directorate for comment on the letter.

Schools To Move Back To Physical Training

There are indications of an increasing concern over the physical development of young British Columbians. Teachers in convention in Vancouver joined the ranks of those who have protested that not enough time is given to physical education in B.C. schools because the curriculum did not permit of any more time being given to this matter.

There has also been a report that the department of education is planning a new course emphasizing physical education as a substitute for the "social adjustment" studies. The latter should never have had a place in the curriculum in any event. It taught the youngsters deportment and accomplishments which they should have learned at home; a department of learning which the home can teach much more effectively than the school if parents recognize their responsibilities instead of handing them over to the schools.

These two items suggest a new policy in our schools: a return to the instruction of physical fitness. The Victoria Colonist commenting on the subject suggests: "It is quite likely that Premier Bennett has had a hand in shaping the new policy. Mr. Bennett is a firm believer in the importance of developing healthy bodies as well as scholastic accomplishments. On several occasions he has spoken freely on the subject of physical education, in a manner giving the impression that he is far from satisfied with what has been done in this direction. As proof of the shortcomings of British Columbia's—and Canada's—school programs of physical training there are disturbing statistics showing the state of the health and physical development of our children to be far below British and European standards. Prince Philip's acid comments on the subject also are unpleasantly implanted in the memory."

Square dancing, instruction in behavior on "dates" and a variety of other inane pursuits followed in place of physical education are a shocking waste of both time and opportunity. Most parents, we believe, will be pleased to know that the department has called a halt. The gymnasiums and facilities which the schools are equipped at enormous public expense are to be put to more profitable use.

While it may not always be possible for all pupils to engage equally in competitive games, there is nothing to prevent them being given some of that old-fashioned "PT" which develops the muscles, improves posture and fosters bodily health. Many of today's young people are in dire need of it; and the ones whose physical development has not been neglected will be all the better for it, too.

Check These Points Now

Each year, more than 40,000 Canadian homes are damaged by fire. Property loss is estimated at $20,000,000 according to the All Canada Insurance Federation which represents 25 competing fire, automobile and casualty insurance companies in Canada.

Of the 400 Canadians who will die in residential fires each year, about half are children. Home fires can be prevented and the federation offers these precautions, especially applicable at this time of year.

1. Remove matches and other inflammables from the pockets of winter garments before storing.
2. Clean out attics, basements, sheds, garages and other areas where rubbish may have accumulated.

3. Use non-inflammable fluids for cleaning floors and clothing; do not use gasoline or similar volatile fluids.
4. Oily rags, or rags soaked in turpentine or other fluids, should be destroyed or kept in sealed metal containers.

5. Winter heating materials—oil, kerosene, etc.—should be kept at minimum level during summer months.
6. Chimneys and furnaces should be cleaned thoroughly.

7. Check fans, air conditioners and similar summer appliances for frayed cords or loose connections.
8. Remove accumulated leaves from eaves and around base of homes.

Hampstead Heath Cheap Montmartre

By M. McINTYRE HOOD
Special London (Eng.)
Correspondent
For The Daily Courier

LONDON — Old Hampstead, with its famous Heath to which Londoners in tens of thousands are drawn on Whit Monday and Bank Holiday, "ain't wot is used for be." That is not the viewpoint of Londoners who like it as a holiday picnic resort. But it is definitely the viewpoint of the members of the Hampstead Heath and Old Hampstead Protection Society. This is a body made up of the more aristocratic types who built their Georgian Mansions there, hoping it would remain an open space neighborhood of a select variety in which they could live in peace and quietness.

But Hampstead has changed in the last few years. The folks out there always prided themselves that they lived in a village all the while, with the working man by themselves, with the open spaces of the famous Heath protected because of its status of "common land." It was the kind of village which is a sort of passion with British people, with little old shoe-mending shops, quaintly named pubs, a funeral director, just one shop for antique furniture, lots of antique shops and the feeling of a balanced community about it.

CHANGED DAYS
Today, Hampstead is about the most cosmopolitan section of London. It has become a large extent the artists' haven, outvying Chelsea in that respect. People of all nationalities have flocked into it, and the village shops have taken on quite an international aspect.

Sir Colin Anderson, chairman of the Hampstead Heath and Old Hampstead Protection Society, has applied to the local authority to change the tag that it is now a "cheap Montmartre."

NEW AMENITIES
The old Hampstead was quite accustomed to its seasonal invasions of great crowds at the Easter, Whitsuntide and Bank Holidays. But now the place has taken on the appearance of having a bank holiday every day of the year. Now there is dancing after midnight in Heath Street dancehalls. There is a juke box. There are sidewalk cafes where one can sit in the sun and sip coffee. The new establishments that have sprung up, and there are over 20 of them, are trying to give the place a continental atmosphere. These 20 eating places specialize in 20 different kinds of food. Those which are Oriental are filled with students from Hong Kong, India, Pakistan and Siam.

One of the dance halls bears the name of Paso Per Qui. Then there is the Pepe Le Moko and the Adalucia. And there is a Wimpey Bar which carries the name of "Tastee Freez."

By the way, for Canadians who might not know, a Wimpey is an extravagant kind of hamburger.

LORDLY OBJECTORS
So there are loud protests about the invasion of the stately village by these cosmopolitan touches. The Protection Society has a wonderful array of titles on its membership roll. It includes Lord Cottesloe, Lord Knollys, Lord Moyne, Lord Radcliffe, Lord Glenconner, Sir Donald Wolfit, Sir Kenneth Clark, Lord Easton, and a host of other knights. And on this list is the name of the man who can change better than anyone else in the land, Harold Brooke, Minister of Housing.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING
By THE VENERABLE D. S. CATCHPOLE
"MAY DAY! MAY DAY!" I am told that the cry of "May Day" from the upper atmosphere is the equivalent of "SOS" at sea. If this is so, I wonder how the expression originated. May Day used to be a great day for labor demonstrations when the laborer plighted the working man to the world.

Perhaps this had something to do with the cry of catastrophe from the skies. It would seem that the sympathy of the world has departed from labor today because, by and large, labor is not too badly off. No doubt they have their troubles but so have the rich. Up to a short time ago, his softness of our democracy, is that a quite different section of the community is crying out piteously, "May Day! May Day!" As wages rise, so does the cost of living. It is an old story and the chap that gets into a spin and crashes is the consumer and particularly the consumer who lives on a pension or a state income.

There is also another group which cannot stand the racket. These are the owners of operations. Someone told me recently that today there are fifteen hundred employees in the Con-Flyng, yet who would have anticipated this only a few years ago? The railway firemen started out hawking "May Day" but it was a lost cause and they might have saved their breath. So the picture shows are supplanted by the TV screen which, in turn, will be scrapped for something else. Take nothing for granted in this world or you will be howling "May Day" before you know where you are at.

However, as it seems to me, a lot of people are crying "May Day" when they have no business doing it. There are not a few of the young element who never replace me. Ouch! "May Day" went through the "Dirty Thirties" May Day!

And who have grown up in days of plenty, who are never satisfied and who cry out at the least, or even no, provocation. They screech about their hurt before they feel a scratch, but there are older people who have long memories and who think that this country is pretty well treated, all in all. I have an idea that a fair number of these malcontents who vote so willingly for strikes had their beginning in other lands where they lived in poverty and were content if they could stay alive. Now in this country they find a relaxed and softened race, and they see the good things here and the right to strike; and of this right they take full advantage.

The result of this generation of malcontents who either do not know what hardship is, or having known it are glad to get out from under and take advantage of the ease of this country is democracy, is that a quite different section of the community is crying out piteously, "May Day! May Day!" As wages rise, so does the cost of living. It is an old story and the chap that gets into a spin and crashes is the consumer and particularly the consumer who lives on a pension or a state income.

There is also another group which cannot stand the racket. These are the owners of operations. CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Every day on Canadian highways a life-or-death drama takes place. A person's life hangs in the balance during the critical time between a highway accident and admittance to hospital. Sometimes the delay is fatal. Often the agony of injury is prolonged.

Can something be done to get highway accident victims to hospital more quickly?

That question is being tackled by a unique research project of the Ontario Medical Association which hopes to evolve a nationwide plan for more efficient handling of accident cases.

RECORDED IN DETAIL
The pilot study being carried out in this St. Lawrence River city is recording in detail what happens to accident victims between the time of their injury and arrival at hospital.

"We hope to work out a pattern for use elsewhere," says Dr. L.A. Caldwell of Cornwall, chairman of the special OMA subcommittee and a member of the Canadian Medical Association committee on highway traffic victims.

"Nobody in Canada has ever really investigated what happens to accident victims," Communications, the role of police, hospitals and physicians are all being considered in the year-long study which began Dec. 1, 1959.

TOO EARLY
To date, 46 accidents with 69 casualties have been carefully recorded. "But it's too early yet to give results," Dr. Caldwell says. The project is being carried on in an area covering 1,632 square miles. There are 230 miles of main highway and an equal number of miles of secondary roads in the study area, bounded by the Quebec border on the west and Vernon and Alexandria on the north.

Accident calls now are routed through city and provincial police although this system may not be the final one selected. Dr. Caldwell said. They send a patrol car and call the ambulances and doctor.

HOUSING OFFICIALS
Eye Mortgage Funds

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—Federal housing officials, with fingers crossed, are carefully watching the money market for an indication of how the 1960 housing program will shape up.

The supply of mortgage funds is the big question mark hanging over the government's target of 125,000 construction starts on new homes this year.

Officials indicate that, after a slow start in the first three months, National Housing Act lending by private firms gathered some steam in the early part of April. Figures show, too, a strong response by would-be homeowners to the government's return to direct mortgage lending on April 6.

But Works Minister Walker has said the government plans to allocate around $150,000,000 to $175,000,000 in direct loans this year, compared with last year's $350,000,000. That would cover 15,000 to 17,500 new homes, at the going average of some $10,000 for each mortgage.

If the 125,000 mark for housing starts is to be met, that will leave a big load of financing to be provided from private lenders. Last year, 141,300 homes were started. Paradoxically, a flourishing year for the housing program probably would occur only with a serious sag in the general economy. That would leave extra capital free for investment in mortgages.

The government's move in December to boost the maximum VITA interest rate to 6 1/2 per cent from six was done in hopes of

OTTAWA REPORT Hucksterism Out Of Tune

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

Are you among the high percentage of Canadians who, according to the pollsters, dislike or disbelieve advertising on television?

The successful trial of pay-as-you-look television in a Toronto suburb, coupled with evidence of growing public impatience with commercial inserts, is reflected in broadcasting circles here in a painful reappraisal of TV advertising.

Canadians who travel overseas, or who are impelled by their occupation to become temporary residents of European countries, are bringing back to Ottawa vivid new concepts of how gracious one's life really can be. And those concepts exclude much of the hocus-pocus which Madison Avenue hucksters repeatedly tell us is essential if we wish to be "gracious," "so-called" or "admirable."

TV ADS RESENTED

The public reaction against advertising is tending here to focus on TV, and criticizes undesirable trends created by American hucksters, especially the indecency and obtrusiveness of advertising.

For examples, critics of advertising inserted into the middle of TV programs point to the preferable systems in some European countries, where only short commercials are permitted, and they are shown between complete programs.

Hucksterism's indecency seems to be resented by many Canadians, and is frankly ridiculed by those who have been sophisticated by travel. Typical was an advertisement in a U.S. publication proclaiming: "only our new ladies' shaver gives the two different cutting actions needed for the different shaving problems of legs and underarms. Only our ladies' shaver comes in an exquisite gold-trimmed velvet evening bag, perfect for evening wear."

Some of us are old enough to remember when woman was criticized for putting on lipstick in public. What would the hucksters wish inflicted on us in public with razors packed in evening bags?

Hucksterism, as spawned in New York's Madison Avenue, will pull no punches in its drive to make a fast buck. For that unworthy objective it is willing to corrupt the truth, our virtues and our children. Canadians are sufficiently superior to our Yankee neighbors to see the difference between the recent false and misleading claims in advertising.

ECONOMIC RISK TO ALL

"Advertising sells people things they do not need," is a common criticism. While many MPs repeatedly deplore commercial dishonesty—Timmins' Murdo Martin is a memorable example of this—they tend to regard the economic consequences of the hard sell as less damaging than easy credit. CCF leader Hazen Argue, for example, is becoming better known in parliament for his attacks on hidden financing charges than for his advocacy on behalf of the wheat farmer.

It would be kinder to say that hucksterism strives, not to sell us things we don't need, but "top of the line" models with luxury trimmings which are more than we can afford.

Hucksters always strive to make something appear what it is not, more desirable, more useful, more novel. They tell us, for instance, that we are too unsure of ourselves to disbelieve example, and some of us are too them, that a washing machine with unnecessary luxury features is a "status symbol."

This is the type of false standard, contravening the best of our heritage of virtues and ethics, which Canadians are increasingly deploring. It is this kind of our way of life, which is tending hucksterism out of tune with to bring all advertising into ill odour in Canada. It is certainly very obvious here that television have had more than enough of it.

Saltspring Is. Women Have More Pierced Ear Lobes

GANGES, B.C. (CP)—Because a man they called "the squire" had a passion for ear-rings, Saltspring Island probably has a greater proportion of women with pierced ear lobes than any other place in British Columbia.

The ear-ring situation is only one of the distinctive features of the 77-square-mile haven in the Gulf of Georgia, 28 miles from Vancouver.

In Ganges and other island settlements the stores have two price tags on articles—one for cash, the other for credit. Fallow deer stray on the gravel roads and life moves at a leisurely pace. But changes are coming.

Mrs. Diana Shove, whose family was one of the first on the island, explained about the ear-rings and the late Harry W. Bullock, the man known as the squire.

"When he was a young man in England," she said, "he must have fallen hopelessly in love with a girl with an 18-inch waist, gloves, high heels, a big floppy hat and pendant ear-rings. He was convinced all his life that this was the only way for a woman to look."

"He used to coax or bribe every woman on the island to have her ears pierced. I held out until he went to $25."

"And if women visitors arrived at his house without gloves, he'd give them a pair."

CHANGING SCENE
The big push toward change will be a new provincial government ferry service between the mainland and Saltspring and Ganges islands. The ferry will dock side by side with one that travels between Sidney and Ganges. It will be twice as fast as present service and will make the island more accessible to the mainland.

The hunt for land on Saltspring is already on, with waterfront lots selling for $20 or more a foot. A shale-processing plant is being rebuilt.

Saltspring still raises a few thousand of the sheep that once were an economic mainstay. But the salt springs which gave the island its name are going, some being trekked out to sea while others are simply neglected. And the last cougar has been shot.

One of the early chapters in Saltspring's history is the arrival and gradual departure of a colony of Negroes.

They came 101 years ago as the island's original settlers, after petitioning Sir James Douglas, the governor of Vancouver Island, for land.

About 600 are believed to have reached B.C., mostly from California, but most were later diverted to the gold rush in B.C. or returned to the United States, although there are still two main family lines here.

Pace And Intensity Of Training Not Suitable To Women?

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Famous Australian track coach Percy Cerutti has raised a storm here by his claim that there is no place for women in the hard sphere of Olympic Games contests.

Start for women, he says, should be conducted as it was in the Victorian age.

Cerutti, controversial coach of many world record breakers, has extreme ideas of training for athletes. He teaches them to think of themselves in jungle conditions and to compete, fangs bared every faculty strained in a fight for survival.

BECOME MASCULINE

He is credited with producing such miracle racers as Herb Elliott, who ran the mile in three minutes, 51.5 seconds.

But he warns women away from his training camp. He says the regime he demands would mean their surrendering femininity and becoming masculine.

"Having women running, jumping and throwing was all right when sport was truly amateur and largely the province of schoolgirls," Cerutti says. "It was the same with women in tennis in Queen Victoria's day. They weren't taken seriously and nobody minded."

"But sport today is on new levels. Men train and condition themselves in strength and ferocity. All these things are detrimental to women. They can't hope to keep up without surrendering their sex."

Athletes in Australia and New Zealand challenge Cerutti's claim. Some agree women should set a limit to their effort, but others dismiss Cerutti's theories completely.

New Zealand track and field administrators and coaches point out that two of the greatest Australian women runners, who have just been touring New Zealand, are particularly feminine and glamorous.

WOMAN HATER?

They are Betty Cuthbert, triple Olympic gold medal winner, and Mrs. Marlene Mathews - Willard, multiple breaker of world sprint records.

Neither is impressed by Cerutti's warnings. Said Betty Cuthbert:

"Mr. Cerutti is being old-fashioned. Times have changed since girls were barred from doing anything. I think he just hasn't got used to the idea."

Mrs. Mathews - Willard declared: "I don't know what Cerutti has against us. Just see how many women athletes are married—and they certainly are feminine. He must be a woman hater."

This charge 65-year-old Cerutti indignantly denies. "I'm no woman hater, I love 'em," he says. "But they must be womanly. I've never wanted to cuddle a weight-lifting amazon yet."

Cerutti says he is not criticizing any present-day women athletes but merely issuing a warning on what will happen if they attempt the physical conditioning undertaken by top male athletes.

"They'll have to have muscular stringy limbs, hard faces, arrested bust development, unwomanly shapes. Do we have to wait until our girls cannot become mothers before we draw attention to the danger?"

Lane's Trades Pay Off As Tribe Ties for First

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Frank Lane's trades, which had of those half-dozen hits off six Sox against Ferrarese (0-1). A two-fans so wild they hung the Cleveland general manager in effigy, by Jim Gentile. It came in the sixth off Dick Donovan.

The Tribe made it with a 3-2 victory at Washington, their fifth in a row, Monday night while the White Sox were losing 11-6 at Baltimore in the only American League game scheduled.

It was Johnny Temple, the second baseman Lane got from Cincinnati, whose two out single scored the clincher against the Senators. And it was Herb Score and Don Ferrarese, two south-paws Lane swapped to the White Sox, who were tagged with seven runs as the third place Orioles, (just .012 points behind) cut Chicago's streak at five games.

The Indians scrambled to the top in a three-run seventh inning at Washington after being shut out on five hits by loser Pete Ramos (0-2).

Singles by Russ Nixon (the catcher Lane couldn't get rid of) and pinch-hitter Bob Hale, plus a walk, loaded the bases in the seventh. Vic Power brought in two with a two-out single. Then Temple put it away.

SIX-HITTER
Right-hander Gary Bell (2-1) had the Senators blanked on one hit until the seventh, when singles by Bob Allison and Jim Lemon and Julio Bequer's pinch double got their two. Bell finished with a six-hitter.

3 Pro Clubs Want Chatham Coach

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Three Western Hockey League clubs are vying for the services of manager-coach Johnny Horeck of Chatham Maroons, 1960 Allan Cup champions.

First to put in a bid and the most likely professional club to woo the loquacious Horeck west were Vancouver Canucks. Also seeking his services were Victoria Cougars and Spokane Comets.

All three clubs made their initial bids in private talks with Horeck in this southeastern B.C. centre.

Horeck refused to elaborate on the offers, saying: "My plans for next season still are up in the air."

But he said he would consider any offer to coach a professional team in the WHL.

Horeck met here with Art Chapman of Vancouver, Roy McBride of Spokane and Hal Laycoe of Victoria.

Chapman has been Canucks' coach since 1952. An intestinal operation last winter has sparked reports at Vancouver that he would likely give up the coaching reins next season.

Horeck, 39, played for Chapman from 1943-46 at Buffalo of the American League.

Chapman will talk to Horeck again next week when the Maroon coach returns to his Detroit home.

"I Beat Ingemar" Claims Carpenter

NEW YORK (AP) — Bjarne Lingaas, a Norwegian carpenter who now lives in Brooklyn, gasped today when he heard the name of Ingemar Johansson.

"Yes," he admitted, "I beat Ingo when we both were amateurs in Oslo in 1952."

"But I'd hate to let Ingo know I said so. He might not like it."

Lingaas made his professional debut Monday night at St. Nicholas arena by decisively outpointing Al Thomas, a last-minute substitute, in a preliminary four-rounder.

Lingaas admitted he won a three-rounder from the current world heavyweight champion eight years ago when both were getting ready for the Olympics.

"It was a defeat," he observed with a smile. "Then he turned pro and I became a carpenter."

Too Much Insulin Can Have Serious Results

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Insulin is a lifesaver for the diabetic. Yet too much of a good thing can be bad, too.

Many victims of diabetes can get along now simply by taking a daily dose of an oral diabetic agent. However, many others still must take frequent injections of insulin. And when too much insulin is taken, the result might be what we term insulin reaction.

REACTION VARIES

This reaction can be minor or, at times, even very severe. When the average person rises in the morning, he normally has about a teaspoonful of sugar in his blood. That is before breakfast, of course.

Then, after eating, this sugar content increases somewhat, but it does not get very high.

INCREASED SUGAR

A diabetic, however, generally has considerably more sugar than this even before eating the first meal of the day. An injection of insulin lowers this sugar level. That's why it is taken.

If too much insulin is taken, the sugar level drops too quickly or too much, and an insulin reaction is likely.

OTHER CAUSES

Not eating enough, or too much physical effort, can also produce reactions.

Symptoms of insulin reaction are somewhat similar to those that an average person might experience when his lunch is such reactions. A little carbohydrate postponed for a couple of hours, hydrate, taken quickly in the The victim feels faint, light-headed, and usually within ten minutes of course, he feels hungry.

If the insulin reaction is severe, the diabetic may become irritable, unable to talk thickly or given a person suffering a re-lapse or cry without any reason action to insulin. That's why I He may even stagger as though he always urged diabetics to intoxicated and he may even carry several crackers, a few lumps of sugar or a couple of Generally, it is easy to halt pieces of candy with them at all times. In some instances, this treatment will have to be repeated. And in really severe cases, injections of glucose by a doctor. Anyone with diabetes should carry a card listing special instructions to follow in emergencies.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

F. R.: How contagious is leprosy?

Answer: Leprosy is the least contagious of the contagious diseases. The chance of picking up the infection by direct contact is slight.

Ordinarily, it may require prolonged contact. Quebec's Laurentian Mountains dotted with countless lakes, are seldom more than 4,000 feet high.

Opening lead — ten of diamonds.

According to some definitions, the ability to count is what distinguishes man from the beasts. We can't couch for zoology in general, but it's certainly true of bridge players.

You can sit down in any bridge game in the world, and in five minutes you can tell the players from the dilettantes. The players invariably count.

So says Alfred Sheinwald in his newest and most comprehensive book, "Five Weeks to Winning Bridge." Sheinwald discusses the art of counting in one chapter of his 35-day course, and presents the accompanying hand to illustrate how the process works in actual practice. West leads a diamond and declarer counts twelve sure tricks immediately—three in each suit. The thirteenth trick obviously has to come from clubs. This is easy enough to obtain if the clubs are divided 3-2, but South must cater to the possibility that one defender may have been dealt J-x-x of clubs.

Even if this is the case, South can still make four club tricks by means of a finesse against the jack, but to do so he must cash the first two clubs in the right order. It will do him no good, for example, to cash the king and ace only to discover that West was the player with four clubs and can no longer be finessed. Only by leading the K-K first would this situation become exposed.

In order to discover which defender has the club length, South cashes all his spades, hearts, and diamonds. As the play progresses, declarer learns that East started with exactly six spades (West showed out on the second spade lead), three hearts (possibly four), and exactly two diamonds.

This makes it impossible for East also to have been dealt J-x-x of clubs (he would have been dealt more than thirteen cards if this were the case). Accordingly, declarer leads the K-K to guard against the possibility that West was dealt four clubs. When East shows out on the second lead, South takes the proven finesse and makes the grand slam.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

This day's planetary vibrations urge tact in all business and personal relationships. However, contented environmental moves or other plans of long-range value may be carried out if you have already given them long and careful thought.

In most matters, you can make headway by devoting some time to study, research and conferences. Continuing Moon and Leo influences favor hobbies, artistic and cultural pursuits and all forms of entertainment.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, you have, as of this week, entered a period in which events in your life should take a definite turn for the better. Recognition of your talents and abilities may come quite suddenly in August.

Domestic affairs, romance and social activities are generally favored for the balance of the year—but especially during July and August. You may be faced with a complex situation in mid-October but, if you can manage a temporary change of environment at that time, you will obtain the better perspective needed to solve it. Look for some exceptionally good news late in December.

A child born on this day will be idealistic and conservative, but may have a tendency to have personal grievances over a long period of time.

IN TORONTO:

Problems Beset Subway Planners

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Problems and controversies beset Toronto's subway planners, but in the next two decades this expanding metropolis may have some 38 miles of underground rapid transit.

About 4½ miles are operating now in Canada's first subway. Another 10 miles—to cost $200,000,000—are getting under way in the planning stage.

The problems are multitudinous and complex, from moving monuments atop the projected tunnels and trying out new construction methods to a running series of squabbles among officials over plans.

But by the end of this decade 14½ miles of subway will be in operation, making a big dent in the clutter of surface congestion and hustling hundreds of thousands of Metropolitan Toronto's 1,500,000 people around the downtown area daily.

EAST-WEST ROUTE
Right now the routes are set for this mileage, to give the Toronto Transit Commission north-south and east-west subways through densely inhabited sections of the city.

The existing subway, only one in Canada, runs north and south through the Yonge Street business section between Union Station and Eglinton Avenue.

Built in 4½ years at a cost of $58,000,000 and in the face of engineering, financial and political complexities, it opened for traffic in 1954 and has carried up to 35,000,000 passengers a year.

The projected additional 10 miles are expected to carry about 345,000 a day. Like the present subway, they will cut by about half the running times for streetcars and buses now in use.

TWO-MILE LINE
In the stage-by-stage construction, next step is a $41,000,000 line two miles long up University Avenue, paralleling the existing stretch and hooking up with it at the southern end near Union Station.

This line, which will dive directly under the Legislature building in Queen's Park, is due for completion in 1963.

Across the northern terminus of the University Avenue route will run the projected $149,000,000 Bloor-Danforth line, stretching eight miles east and west. To be constructed in stages between 1962 and 1969, it will dip under the existing Yonge Street subway and connect with its trains.

Eventually a route will slant off the western part of the Bloor-Danforth run and reach into northwest Toronto for perhaps 10 miles. But just where this will be laid out has officials embroiled in a controversy.

DIFFER ON ROUTE
William Duncan, TTC's subway chief, has selected one route but the commission has vetoed this and chosen another.

Frederick G. Gardiner, potent chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto Council and known locally as "Big Daddy," is trying to knock their heads together by threatening to get the TTC made a branch of Metro, top body of the federation of 13 municipalities including Toronto proper.

The TTC actually is a creature of the Ontario Legislature, but Metro has a big stake in the project because it is financing some $102,000,000 of the $200,000,000 cost of construction. Also, it is buying up right-of-way involving some 850 buildings.

It proposes to raise $85,000,000 of this on a pay-as-you-go basis through an addition to tax rates. The TTC share will be met through debenture issues and fare revenue. Fares have just been raised to 15 cents from 12½ with free transfer from surface transportation to subways.

VARIED METHODS
Meanwhile, as the engineers get down to building tunnels, a variety of construction methods are being used.

Most unusual is an import from Europe never before used on a North American subway and calculated to lessen disruption of surface traffic as streets are ripped up to dig out space for the tubes. It was developed in Milan, Italy.

Narrow trenches are excavated on each side of the street to the depth of the subway and filled with concrete. Then the centre of the street is dug to the roof level of the subway only. The concrete roof is poured over the earth. The street surface then is replaced while the digging is resumed within the concrete frame.

MORE COSTLY
The TTC had a crew from Italy lay down 180 feet of tunnel on University Avenue under this technique, and Mr. Duncan said it saved about half the time in traffic disruption.

"We are satisfied with its characteristics," he said, though he added it's more expensive than straight digging.

On the Bloor-Danforth section, contractors will be able to put in bids based on this system.

However, the unfinished part of the University Avenue line will be a combination of straight tunnelling of the sandhog type and the cut-and-cover method used on the Yonge line.

LITTLE NOISE
There will be about a mile of tunnel at the north end, including the section that goes under the legislature building. Special steps will be taken to deaden train noise in this stretch, though this has not been much of a problem on the Yonge branch.

So far, the tunnels are just at the stage of having the vertical shafts dug.

Another North American first for the University Avenue stretch will be the inclusion of an underground parking garage at the south end, costing about $1,000,000 and holding about 325 cars. To be built for the Toronto Parking Authority, it will be a two-storey structure fitting between the subway roof and street level.

On the University line, too, is the task of relocating three monuments including a massive Boer War memorial which may have to be taken apart and reassembled.

"But monuments are not difficult to shift," one engineer said. "It's as easy as shifting a house."

Aussies Finally Succeed With Rainmaking Tests

SYDNEY (CP) — Australian scientists, after 13 years of experiments, have succeeded in inducing rain to fall where and when it is most needed—provided rain clouds are in the vicinity.

Dr. F. W. G. White, chairman of the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization, announced that rainmaking experiments over the Snowy Mountains area in the Australian Alps had been highly successful and that the scientists had a sure method of increasing rainfall.

All associated with the experiments emphasized that rain cannot be produced at will in any place but that rain can be triggered from clouds if men and machines are on hand when the rain clouds gather.

CLOUDS SEEDED
Dr. White said long-term experiments had proved that in some areas rainfall can be increased substantially.

Dr. E. G. Bowen, chief of the radiophysics branch of CSIRO, said present figures indicated a 15-per-cent increase in the Snowy Mountains' rainfall. The figure for the New England area in New South Wales was even higher.

Success had come from the seeding of clouds with silver iodide from an aircraft.

It had taken work of between three and five years to convince scientists of the success of the experiments, Dr. Bowen said. Over a long period, it was possible to see that the rainfall was actually increasing.

Methods now used were not adaptable to all areas. Experiments north of Adelaide in South Australia had failed and those being conducted in Queensland had not been going long enough to show whether they were successful.

HALF-HOUR PROCESS
There would be success, Dr. Bowen said, in areas where there was often build-up of clouds without rain.

In a single rain-making project, one plane could set rain going over an area of 4,000 square miles.

Given right conditions, the rain would begin falling within half an hour of the first seeding and would continue until conditions changed.

"The increased rainfall could mean a tremendous lot to the fringe areas of Australia's settled lands," he said.

Rain was made for the first time in Australia in 1947 by seeding clouds with dry ice from an aircraft but by 1951 scientists had successfully substituted silver iodide for dry ice.

Canada "Terrific" Says French Actress

PARIS (CP) — French actress Simone Signoret says Canada is "chouette"—terrific.

Back in Paris after a triumphant North American tour in which she collected an Oscar for her performance in Room at the Top, Signoret told interviewer Jean Cau of the Paris newspaper L'Express:

"It's terrific, Canada... I like Canadian culture, the Canadian spirit, it's something stronger than me, I adore Canada."

Japan Gives Further Aid To Growing Merchant Navy

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan's merchant navy, now fifth among the world's maritime nations, is to get new subsidies to help expansion.

The government has decided to revive the system, suspended three years ago, of subsidizing the servicing of loans for the building of new ships. It also has agreed to increase subsidies for the promotion of increased competition by Japanese ships in international trade with vessels flying other flags.

Japanese shipping interests consider that they are entitled to receive subsidies because war compensation due to them was suffered serious damage during the war.

CUT INTEREST RATES
Continued expansion of the fleet with government aid is considered necessary to improve Japan's balance of invisible trade.

The post-war rehabilitation of the merchant fleet has been financed mainly by fiscal funds bearing 6.5-per-cent interest, and commercial loans with an average interest rate of 8.4 per cent.

These rates are considered in Japan to be substantially higher than those charged in other major mercantile countries.

The interest rate for fiscal funds, supplied through the Development Bank of Japan, was reduced temporarily to five per cent by a government decision in September, 1959.

The revised subsidies are designed to cut the effective average interest rate for commercial loans also to about five per cent.

French-Canadian Artist Gets Posthumous Tribute In Paris

PARIS (CP) — A Paris art gallery and a magazine have paid tribute to Paul - Emile Borduas, Canadian - born artist who was gaining widespread acclaim in France when he fell victim of a fatal heart attack last February.

Borduas, 55 - year - old native of the little town of St. Hilaire, Que., about 25 miles east of Montreal, was recognized among Paris artists as a leader in the field of surrealist art. But it was only shortly before his death that he won general recognition for his work.

At a spring exhibition, the Paris museum of modern art selected him as one of the dead artists to whom it wished to pay tribute. Four of his paintings were included in an exhibition.

STUDIED IN PARIS
Borduas studied and painted in Paris from 1928 until 1932. Then he returned to Montreal and spent several years there and before returning to Paris to take up permanent residence in 1955.

R. Fontene, an artist and recognized expert judge of abstract art, said in an interview that Borduas was a promoter of "free painting."

"He revived artistic creation," said Mr. Fontene. "His influence was, remains and will become important."

Borduas died in his sleep last Feb. 22. On the eve of his death he had felt unwell and had asked his landlady to summon a doctor because his right hand appeared to be paralyzed. The doctor came and gave Borduas a sedative. He telephoned friends, told them he was feeling better and that he was going to bed.

ASSURED BY DOCTOR
He had complained for some time of feeling tired. He believed he had heart trouble. But the doctor told him his heart was in perfect condition.

"It is the abuse of coffee and cigarettes that is making you so nervous," said the doctor.

The morning following the doctor's visit, Borduas' landlady knocked at his door to ask how he was feeling. When she got no answer from the usually light sleeper, she called her husband and asked him to break in the door. They found Borduas dead in bed.

The paintings Borduas had completed at the time of his death are still under seal in his Paris room. There they will remain until an executor has been appointed by his heirs to dispose of his estate.
